"TRADE-AT-HOME-DAY" BANQUET SUCCESS FROM EVERY VIEWPOINT

BRILLIANT TOASTS FEATURE DINNER

"Trade-at-Home Spirit Permeates
the Air and Eighty-four Banqueters Feel It.

S. L. TRABUE AS TOASTMASTER

Dr. F. G. Hackleman, C. A. McKeand
of Indianapolis and James E.
Watson All Respond.

Home trade sentiment permeated
the air at the "Trade-at-Home-Day" banquet held under the auspices of the retail merchants division of the Rush county Chamber of Commerce
at the Windsor hotel last night.
Eighty-four men sat down to a turkey "feed" that kept them busy consuming it for nearly an hour and a half.

After dinner talks were made by Dr. F. G. Hackleman, C. A. Mc-
Keand of Indianapolis and James E.
Watson. They were all impromptu talks, with the exception of Mr. Mc-Keand's, who came here from the organization which is conducting a "Trade-at-Home" campaign in Indiana for the Indiana Retail Merchants association. Samuel L. Trabue presided as toastmaster in a fashion that won for him the compliments and plaudits of the banqueters. His introductions were fitting and timely, and often there were word puns for home consumption that tickled the crowd.

Mr. Trabue introduced Dr. F. G.
Hackleman as a specialist on the eye, ear, nose and throat, who might have a hankering to examine the month, too, in these days of epidemic
of the foot and mouth disease. Dr.
Hackleman said the arrangement
was not a part of the program so far as he was concerned and that if he ever made a speech in his life, he never knew it, but that he was thoroughly in sympathy with the idea that suggested the banquet and wanted to support it all he could.

Dr. Hackleman was reminded of an experience of his which he related. He had a customer from out of the city who purchased a pair of glasses. The customer, a woman, by the way, asked him about a place to make a purchase. Dr. Hackle-man recommended a home merchant. The woman called to make her purchase per his recommendations and later returned to his office.
Then she confided in him what she had learned.

She had been examining the goods
laid out for her inspection and noted that the proprietor who was waiting on her wore glasses. The woman in question was very proud of her glasses and commented on the fact that she had just purchased them.
Then she grew inquisitive and asked the merchant where he bought glasses.

"Why, I got them in Indianapolis,"
he replied.

The woman, Dr. Hackleman said was not very enthusiastic about trading at home after that although she had been in the habit of doing
all of her buying here.

Mr. McKeand, a young man of personality, a wealth of experience and a straight-forward manner of speaking, was next introduced by Toastmaster Trabue.

Mr. McKeand outlined the plans

NEW DOLLAR STARTS ON TOUR OF COUNTY

Stipulations in Phamplet in Which it is Glued Are That it be Spent
at Home Always

TO RETURN TO BANK DEC. 23

Then it Will be Found Just How Much Good it Did by Remaining in the Community

A sleek new greenback with a dollar mark on it—one that had never been spent—was sent out from the Peoples National bank this morning on a mission of happiness. It was pasted on the inside of the back of a little phamplet and on the front of the large phamplet was the inscription, "Keep Me At Home."

The idea is to keep the dollar in Rush county and see just how many people will receive it in return for something and how many will spend it. It is provided that if every person who falls in possession of the dollar will comply with the stipulations, to return the dollar to the Peoples National bank Wednesday December 23 and then there will be published the names of every person who spent the dollar and what they spent it for.

This method was suggested to illustrate just what one little dollar would do in a community like Rush county in a little over a month. It will furnish a concrete example of the "trade-at-home" propaganda.

It is urgently requested that every person who receives the dollar follow the instructions in the pham-plet. In addition, every person who receives the dollar in payment for something can explain the plan to the person with whom it is spent so that the chain can be kept up.

On the title page opposite the dollar bill glued to the inside of the back of the phamplet is a statement of the agreement every person who receives the dollar bill is asked to enter into. Then each page is ruled off under the following headings:
date, by whom spent and to whom spent and what for.

Then on December 23 it can be ascertained chronologically just what the life of that "infant dollar bill" has been. It can be shown just how much good that dollar bill has done here in Rush county, when, if sent out of Rush county, would not have accomplished any results at all here.

On the title page appears the following instructions:

PLEASE KEEP ME IN RUSH
COUNTY—I am as good a Dollar as Uncle Sam ever issued. If kept in Rush county I can and will make hundreds of people happy; if spent away from home you will never see or hear of me again. Keep track of me for the next thirty days and see how much good I do here in my home community. Please return me to the Peoples National bank on Wednesday, December 23, 1914 where you will be introduced to and presented with my twin brothers also a perfectly good Dollar.

MRS. SMITH DEAD; SPOUSE MAY DIE

Fumes From Burnt Gas and Escaping Gas Causes One Death in Clarksburg Home.

DISCOVERY THIS MORNING

Wm. Smith Not Expected to Live—Position Indicates he Tried to Reach Stove.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 79 years old, is dead and her husband, William Smith, 75 years old, is not expected to live, as a result of escaping gas and the fumes from burnt gas, which filled their home in Clarksburg last night. Mrs. Smith was dead and from all appearances had been for some time, when found this morning
by neighbors, who decided to break in the house when they became alarmed when they saw no signs of life about the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were sleeping in a room with a stove heated by natural gas. There was no air in the room and it is thought that the gas came on some time in the night without being discovered by the aged couple. When the neighbors broke into the house the stove was red hot and more fumes were coming off all the time.

Mr. Smith was found on the edge of the bed unconscious. He was lying back across his wife indicating that he had made an effort to get up but was overcome before he could do
so. At a late hour this afternoon
Mr. Smith was still unconscious and there was little hope maintained for his recovery. He is well known here especially in the southern part of the county, as he formerly lived at Milroy. He was a veteran of the Civil war and had lived at Clarksburg for the past few years.

It was at eight-thirty o'clock this morning that neighbors decided to investigate. There was no signs of life about the house and the blinds were still drawn, and as Mr. and Mrs. Smith were in the habit of getting up rather early it was decided something was wrong. The fumes of escaping gas and those from the burnt gas were stifling and it was necessary to open all the doors even before the people could enter.

The coroner of Decatur county was notified but did not go to Clarksburg, as the statements of the physicians satisfied him that asphyxiation was accidental. About one year ago
Mr. and Mrs. Smith narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation in the same manner. At that time they were warned about the stove throwing off fumes. The little town of Clarksburg was deeply stirred over the untimely death of Mrs. Smith and excitement ran high there all day.

YEGGMEN GET ABOUT $4,000

Blow Bank Safe at Chalmers Near Lafayette Today.

(By United Press.)

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—Yeggmen early today blew the safe of the state bank at Chalmers and obtained between $3,500 and $4,000 cash.
The explosives tore the safe to fragments, William Vaught, living above the bank, heard the explosion and ran to the street. A robber knocked him down and they carried him unconscious to his door where they told Mrs. Vaught to care for him. The robbers escaped.

A marriage license was issued this afternoon to Leonard Sullivan and

SEES NO SIGN OF CATTLE DISEASE

Dr. Mull, Deputy County Health
Commissioner, Examines Herds
Shipped Here Since Sept. 15.

FARMERS CO-OPERATING

As Ahxious as Health Authorities
To Prevent Malady—John F.
Boyd's Cattle Have Disease.

Dr. A. A. Mull, in an interview today, stated that after careful examination of all stock shipped into Rush county since Sept. 15, 1914 he is satisfied that there is no signs of the foot and mouth disease in this county, and that the farmers by obeying strictly the orders given out by the state veterinarian's office can greatly assist in keeping down any outbreak of this disease. He also states that every courtesy has been shown him by the farmers who own the stock that has been shipped in during this time and their hearty co-operation is assured to keep down the spread of this disease.

Each and all of them desire that all hunting and trespassing among farmers and hunters be stopped until all danger is passed. Dr. Mull has been asked by several farmers about shipping in hogs by express and his advice is to refrain from an importation of breeding or stock animals from any place, as they might contract the malady while enroute. He also states that while we are free from this disease farmers should use every precaution against infections through any source and remember that it is better to investigate a dozen rumors and find them
false than to ignore a true one.

According to Dr. Mull, only about five shipments of cattle from the Chicago market have arrived in Rush county since September 15.
Most of these shipments have been confined to the northern part of the county and so far no signs of the foot and mouth disease have developed. Among those who shipped in cattle from Chicago were Frank Sample, Homer Nash and Fred Bell.
All of these men have shown the greatest consideration to Dr. Mull and are as anxious to see that none of the disease is brought here as he is.

John F. Boyd has returned from Chicago where eight head of his fine cattle are under quarantine. Mr.
Boyd did not know until this last visit to Chicago that his cattle had been infected with the foot and mouth disease. He stated that when he left Chicago six of the herd had already had the disease and were on the way to recovery.

Mr. Boyd stated that the cattlemen there did not take the disease very seriously and as long as their herds, numbering over 600 cattle, were quarantined they might just as well have the disease. Mr. Boyd's cattle had the disease in a mild form and while their tongues were sore
for a few days and they did not eat,
the cattle apparently suffered little from the disease.

WAYNE SMITH DEAD.

Wayne Smith, the six-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Smith, died this morning at their home near Fairview after a short illness from cerebro-spinal fever. The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at one-thirty o'clock at the residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

A marriage license was issued this morning to William E. Shannahan and Cecilia M. Toolen.

U. S. LAUNCH IS FIRED UPON

Official Confirmation That Turkish Land Batteries Opened on Vessel Received Today.

ATTENDING THE TENNESSEE

State Department Worried Because of Word Consul Horton is Anxious For Safety of Consulate.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 18.—Official confirmation that a launch from the armored cruiser Tennessee had been fired on by the Turkish land batteries
was received by the navy department today from Captain D. C. Decker.

The first report to the navy department indicated that the cruiser herself had been fired on. Later the message was interpreted as meaning that it was the launch of the cruiser enroute from Vurlox to Smyrna.

The department has asked for further particulars. In the meanwhile the navy department insists that it sees no cause for alarm at present. The Tennessee is now in the Greek harbor Chios.

Acting secretary of state Lansing explained that he has been out of touch with Constantinople for two days. This is due to the interruption of certain direct cable communications and to the fact that messages have to pass through the war territory. So far as direct communication with Smyrna is concerned, the secretary said that all word from Asia Minor took from two to five days.

The last report from Ambassador
Morgenthau reached here Monday.
It was a routine report, but indicated that conditions were in the main tranquil. The reports that the Tennessee and North Carolina might be immediately recalled from European waters to avoid another "Maine disaster" were widely circulated after the report of the firing was confirmed.

Secretary Daniels and other navy
officials would not discuss the matter. The secretary declared that he proposed to take one step at a time and that until he received Captain Decker's report on the actual circumstances surrounding the incident he would not consider the status of the cruiser.

Fixed and Fair

Modern retail merchandising
is founded on the rock of a fixed price for all.

But even this fixed price
fluctuates with the rises and falls
of the market.

It is the latter respect that advertised articles of well known brands stand superior to the average product.

Even with the upset market
of war times few advertised articles have increased prices to consumers.

They have continued to sell at their fixed and fair prices.

The manufacturers have in many instances preferred to sacrifice profit rather than public esteem.

When you see a national article advertised in this newspaper remember the name as that of an article that merits confidence.

is when you have bought something that don't look good to you next day. It may be that you bought without looking around much and then saw something your neighbor had bought that looked better to you than your own purchase and he bought it at the very place you failed to go when you were looking around. Then another reason, you are sore at yourself is because you know it was your own fault. Every merchant would be glad to show you his ware at any time even if you did buy of someone else. Don't make a mistake like this when you get ready to buy a Storm Buggy. See who has the best. Examine the construction of each part of the buggy and especially the doors. Be sure they CAN'T rattle. Be sure they are constructed in a way that will insure you a light running vehicle. Look each detail of construction over before you buy and there will be no "MORNING AFTER IN BUYING" with you. We will be glad to show you our buggies at all times, and show you why we believe they are the best. Then you can use your own judgment and we will be satisfied.

NEW METHOD IS BEING TESTED

Department of Agriculture Working on Concentration of Apple Cider Out in Oregon

TAKE OUT FOUR PARTS WATER

Bottling Pasteurized Milk While Still Hot Has Several Advantages in Commercial Way

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 18.—The recently discovered method of concentrating apple cider by freezing and centrifugal process is being given a commercial test by specialists of the fruit and vegetable utilization laboratory of the Department of Agriculture. A cider mill in the Hood River Valley, Oregon, under the supervision of the department, has undertaken to manufacture and test on the retail market 1,000 gallons of concentrated cider, which will represent 5,000 gallons of ordinary apple cider, with only the water removed.

The new method, it is believed makes possible the concentrating of cider in such a way that it will keep better than raw cider and also be so reduced in bulk that it can be shipped profitably long distances from the apple growing regions. The old attempts to concentrate cider by boiling have been failures because heat destroys the delicate flavor of cider. Under the new method nothing is taken from the cider but the water and the resultant product is a thick liquid which contains all the apple juice products and which can be restored to excellent sweet cider by the simple addition of four parts of water.

The process as described by the department's specialists, consists of freezing ordinary cider solid. The cider ice is then crushed and put into centrifugal machines such as are used in making cane sugar. When the cider ice is whirled rapidly the concentrated juice is thrown off and collected, the water remains in the machine as ice.

At ordinary household refrigerator temperatures this sirup-like cider will keep perfectly for a month or six weeks and if kept at low temperatures in cold storage will keep for prolonged periods at ordinary house temperatures it of course, will keep a shorter time.

To make the concentrated sirup, the cider mill must add to its equipment an ice making machine and centrifugal machinery, so that the process is not practicable on a small scale. The specialists are hopeful however, that the commercial test being conducted in Oregon will show that it will be possible for apple growers to concentrate their excess cider and ship it profitably to the far south or to other non-producing regions. The specialists also believe that it will enable apple producers to prolong the market for cider.

Investigators in the Department of Agriculture have found that the process of bottling pasteurized milk still hot has several advantages which make it seem probable that this method would prove both economical and efficacious when practiced on a commercial scale. This method results in bacterial reductions as great as or even greater than, by pasteurization in bottles.

The principal advantage of the latter method for the ordinary system in commercial use is the impossibility of the milk becoming contaminated again while being bottled. There is also some saving of milk, because there is no loss from evaporation. On the other hand, when milk is pasteurized in bottles, it is customary to cool the bottles by placing them in cold water. This necessitated the use of absolutely water tight caps; otherwise some of the cold water is likely to find its way into the milk bottles and even a very slight leak may result in contamination.

Water proof caps are not only expensive but care is essential to see that they actually are water proof, and moreover, bottles with chipped or otherwise damaged tops cannot be used no matter how nearly perfect the cap may be.

Laboratory experiments conducted by the investigators indicate that milk may be pasteurized, bottled hot, capped with ordinary card board caps, and cooled by a blast of cold air, economically and with very satisfactory bacterial reductions. The air cooling process requires somewhat longer time than cooling by water, but in the laboratory it was found that thoroughly pasteurized milk, bottled immediately, could be cooled slowly without increasing the bacterial content. Commercial experiments are to be conducted by department to test out the practicability of the new process.

You Make Friends by Recommending a Reliable Kidney Medicine

Your representative called at my door yesterday meaning to leave a sample of your noted Swamp-Root and I am certainly pleased to see anybody connected with the firm who makes a medicine which has done so much for me and my family. A few years ago I was suffering from a terrible pain in my back and when I was up around the house I had to walk with my body bent nearly double. If you had placed a thousand dollars above my head I could not straighten up to get it.

Hearing of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I sent to you for a sample bottle and from the effects of that small amount I was sure it would help me, so I bought one bottle and it has cured me.

Shortly after that my husband who was a coal miner, was suffering from kidney trouble and could not work and I sent for some of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. He was in a terrible condition, but as the doctor's had not given any relief, I had more faith in Swamp-Root, and it was well founded, for it did the work and after taking a few bottles he was completely cured.

I daily recommend the use of Swamp-Root to my friends and neighbors.

Sincerely yours,

MRS. JOHN NORDQUIST, Galesburg, Penna.

LITTLE BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Mother Tells How Her Little Son Was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

New York City.—"About five years ago my little boy, then seven years old, was very ill with gastritis, then he contracted measles from the other children, pneumonia soon followed, and there seemed no hope of saving his life. However, we fought off the disease and he recovered, but was in a very weak and delicate condition.

"The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but his little stomach swelled up like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That bloated condition soon disappeared, and now he is a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol." Mrs. THOMAS FITZGERALD, 1090 Park Ave., New York City.

In all cases where the healing, curative, tissue building influence of cod liver oil, or the strength-creating, blood-making properties of tonic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease, and tastes delicious.

Asthma-Catarrh and Bronchitis

Can Be Greatly Relieved by the New External Vapor Treatment.

Melt in a spoon a little Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve and inhale the vapors. Put a little up each nostril and at night apply well over throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covering loose around the neck so that the vapors of Menthol, Thymol, Eucalyptol, Camphor, and Pine Tar, that are released by the body heat, may be inhaled all night long. In Asthma and Hay Fever rub Vick's over the spinal column to relax the nervous tension. This treatment is not a "cure," but it has at least the merit of containing no harmful drugs and it is sold by all druggists in 25c, 50c, and $1.00 jars, on thirty days' trial. Vick's is also excellent for all croup and cold troubles.

KIDNAPPED GIRL BACK WITH MOTHER

Little Grace Howard, Age Four, of Kokomo, Compelled to Wear Boys' Clothing.

Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 18.—Little Grace Howard, aged 4, donned her girl-clothes today for the first time in two months. She was so glad to be a girlie again. Mrs. Charles C. Howard has sought for her child since Sept. 14. The girl was kidnapped that day by her father, dressed in boy's clothing with hair bobbed, and was taken to Ulrich, Mo. Relatives of the Howards in Alton, Ill., got trace of the child and Kansas City detectives found her. Howard, who has been divorced by Mrs. Howard, is a photographer in Ulrich. Mrs. Howard was given custody of Grace by the court.

GATHER TO HEAR CHOICE MORSELS

Crowd at Ivy Reynolds Murder Trial at Connersville Today Following Yesterday's Sensation

TESTIMONY OF HIS WIFE

Connersville, Ind., Nov. 18.—With the details of the Toledo hotel story fresh in their minds, an immense throng filled the court room here today to gather up other choice morsels from the Ivy Reynolds murder trial. Reynolds is charged with murdering his wife by a subtle poison that he might marry Miss Dora Gerber of Morenci, Mich. He married the Michigan girl eleven days after his wife's death.

Mrs. Dora Reynolds took the stand late yesterday and told of the meeting with Reynolds Nov. 21, 1913 in the Wayne hotel at Detroit. They registered as man and wife, though the first Mrs. Reynolds still lived. She was accompanied by Miss Marie Huston of Morenci, who registered as Mrs. Philip Braun, Jr. Braun accompanied Reynolds.

"Miss Huston and I occupied one room adjoining the room of the two men, but the door between the two rooms remained locked at all times," said Mrs. Reynolds. "We stayed in the hotel two nights."

It's More Than a Duty

Millions of words have been written and pages have been printed, all devoted to the duty a man owes to his home city by buying at home. But it is not merely a duty; self-interest also demands it. If it were a matter of duty alone it is to be feared that few of us would pay much attention to it. When Phillips Brooks returned one time from abroad a reporter met him at the pier and jocularly asked:

"Doctor Brooks, did you bring over any new religion that you had to pay duty on?"

"I am not so foolish," replied the quick-witted divine, "as to attempt to introduce into America any religion with duties attached to it."

We are not as bad as that, but we are inclined sometimes to neglect public duty and to devote our thought rather to promoting private interest. This is human nature.

But buying at home is not a duty but just good plain, ordinary common-sense. It means when you pay out money that that money is pretty likely to be employed at home in new stocks, new buildings and enlarged enterprises. It means that eventually some of that money is likely to get back into your own pocket. For you have something to sell as well as the merchant—crops or labor or services or something. The more money that is in circulation among your neighbors, the more likely are they to be able to buy what you have to sell.

The mail order house is not going to buy your products, whatever they may be. The idea of commerce is the exchange of commodities, buying and selling to each other, which makes each man in the community a necessity and furnishes each commodity with a demand. Keep the money at home where it can be a circulating medium bringing you employment and a market and helping the place to grow and to prosper.

The big things aren't always accomplished in the big places; the greatest poem in the English language was written in a country churchyard.

The home paper, we are all agreed should always sing the praises of the community where it is published; but why not all join in and make it a chorus instead of a solo.

The man who is generally waiting for something to turn up generally gets turned down regularly.

Don't be a groucher; everyone in Rushville wishes you well, even the doctor.

When someone plans to help Rushville and Rush county, plan to help the plan.

A car can't run without gasoline; a commercial organization can not run without dues.

A city is very much like a baby carriage; it isn't of much use unless it is pushed.

Notice to Property Owners

Rushville, Ind., Nov. 17, 1914.
To Whom it May Concern:

Notice is hereby given by the common council of the city of Rushville, Indiana, that on the Seventh day of November, 1914, they approved an assessment roll showing the "prima facie" assessments for the following described public improvements as authorized by Improvement Resolution No. 36. Said improvement is intersected by the following streets and alleys. The improvement of Ninth street from Willow to George street, by constructing cement sidewalks and grading lawns. Persons interested in, or affected by said described public improvement are hereby notified that the common council of said city has fixed December 1st, 1914, as a date upon which remonstrances may be received, or heard against the amount assessed against each piece of property described in said roll, and will determine the question, as to whether such lots or tracts of land have been or will be benefited in the amounts named on said roll or in a greater or less sum than named on said roll.

Said assessment roll showing said "prima facie" assessments with the names of owners and description of property subject to be assessed, is on file and may be seen at the office of the City Clerk.

BRILLIANT TOASTS

which led up to the "Trade-at-Home" campaign in Indiana. He said a comprehensive, indefinite campaign with one spectacular feature, the banquet, had been arranged. He called attention to the fact that the newspapers had supported the campaign loyally and cited to prove this that 756 yards of publicity matter had been printed by Indiana newspapers in the last four weeks concerning the campaign. Last night, he said, twelve thousand people were banqueting in thirty-two towns and cities in Indiana, all with the "trade-at-home" idea in their minds.

He recalled the fact that investigation had proved that on an average of $25 per capita is being spent out of the state by Indiana people each year. He calculated that it means $450,000 is going out of Rush county each year which should be in local channels right now. He pointed out that meat loss of profit approximately near $100,000 annually which should have remained at home and been invested here. This also meant not only a loss in profit, but a loss in bank deposits, in value of reality, in value of a property. The value of a property, he declared demands much on the fact that some persons store is located in it, but because so many footsteps pass there each day. A certain farm is worth so much, he added, largely because it is so many miles from Rushville.

Mr. McKeand called attention to the fact that the mail order catalogues give a minute description of the goods it offers for sale, but the average merchant does not always offer the good points of any certain thing he desired to sell, but puts it in glittering generalities which mean nothing. The value of advertising, he asserted, depends on repetition and by that is built up a reputation. He declared advertising does not boost prices, but lowers them, as he proved by a movement that is widespread and is influencing the acting of advertising organizations and large advertising-carrying newspapers and magazines.

"This is not a day of individualism," Mr. McKeand continued, "but a day of organized individualism. It is the skyscraper men that build the skyscraper cities. What the men are depends on what the town or city is."

Mr. McKeand told the story of the Indianapolis shoe merchant and the Indianapolis dry goods man who have lived across the street for years and who are the best of neighbors. The dry goods merchant has always patronized the shoe merchant, but the shoe merchant had never reciprocated; he nor none of his family have ever purchased a shoe from their neighbor. One night the shoe merchant and his wife were at the home of the dry goods merchant playing cards. Some friends came in and another table had to be cleared away for cards. The dry goods merchant was piling some books on the lower part of the library. He found there some catalogues from suit and cloak houses. The shoe merchant's wife admitted that she had been buying away from home.

"I know I can't find what I want here, so I just order my goods by catalogue from New York," she explained.

"You can't find what you want in Indianapolis?" inquired the shoe merchant. "I have been your neighbor for many years. I and members of my family have purchased every pair of shoes we wear from your husband's store. Yet you buy your goods away from home. You have never crossed the threshold of my store to find what you want. You have never investigated my motto: 'If I haven't it, I can get it if it can be obtained.'"

Mr. McKeand told of the Indiana newspaper editor who recently built a house for himself and his mother bought most of the material away from home. Yet he complained because merchants did not advertise. Mr. McKeand recalled that the wealthiest man in Anderson built a beautiful new home and bought all of the furnishings away from home. "We all need each other," continued Mr. McKeand. "The thief needs his prey to rob, the lawyer needs his client and even the snob needs a crowd to gap at him. A live commercial organization is the prime necessity of every community. The whole thing in the community idea is expressed in the one word service. 'What do I get out of it?' is wrong. Did George Washington undergoing the hardships of Valley Forge ask, 'What do I get out of it?' did Abraham Lincoln, with the weight of millions on his shoulders, think, 'What do I get for it?'"

Mr. McKeand told the story of Seymour Heinman, who worked on the theory of service. When he died the city which he had helped make stopped as his funeral was held. Three trans-continental railroads stopped.

In introducing James E. Watson, S. L. Trabue hit on some nicely-framed word puns which brought rounds of applause from the audience of men.

"While this is a 'dry' town," he began, "we have our 'Beer.' Even though this is not a grave yard, we have our 'Sextons.' Though we may not have an abundance of money, we have our 'Pyle' and even though we have not the sacks to put it in, we have our 'Polk.'" In conclusion he added: "And we have not our Bryan, but we have our Watson."

Mr. Watson was vigorously applauded when he arose to speak. He addressed the banqueters on the theme of the evening, and during the course of his remarks said:

"Let's all resolve right now that we will buy nothing away from home when we can get it at home. Let's ask our wives to make the same resolve because they are greater violators than we are. I should think it would be a wise policy to arrange a banquet for our wives to talk this thing over. Once we get such a movement started, then it will radiate and reach out into the whole community."

Mr. Watson commented on the fact that whenever he went to Indianapolis, as he frequently does, he found Rushville women, many of them merchants' wives, on their way to Indianapolis and admitting that they were going to shop. He said that husbands could not always control the actions of their wives, but that they might attempt to show how buying away from home undermines the community.

Mr. Watson, at the outset, commented on the fact that he fought the parcel post law while he was in congress from beginning to end because it means the destruction of the smaller communities and the growth of the larger places. In England, he said, the parcel post has driven all the people into London. He declared the parcel post is a form of business enlargement right at a time when we are fighting the collection of great amounts of wealth. Keeping money at home, he asserted, is what makes a people prosper. He pointed out the average per capita wealth in the United States was $36, but that it was not equally distributed because the per capita wealth in New York is $70 and in Arkansas $9. He said there will be neither moral or intellectual development so long as there is not material development and there can not be material development unless our money is kept at home.

"I had an engagement this evening," said Mr. Watson, near the conclusion of his address, "but I forsook it to attend this meeting because I believe in the principle. I think Rushville is the finest spot on earth to live in."

The turkey dinner was enjoyed by every one and the hotel proprietor was complimented for his effort in arranging it. Two large bouquets of chrysanthemums graced one of the tables and the piano, and there were bouquets of carnations on each table. Wagoner's orchestra played during the banquet and each number was loudly applauded.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR APPLE SHOW

One Which Opens Tonight Expected

to Be Best Ever Held—Several

New Features

MOVING PICTURES DAILY

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Nov. 18.—All was ready at Tomlinson hall this afternoon for the opening of the fourth Indiana Apple Show tonight. Governor Ralston will deliver an address and the Indianapolis News Newsboys Band will supply the music. Apples of all hues crowd the hall and make a beautiful display. The prospects for a good show are better than they ever were according to the managers.

One of the novel features of the show will be the moving pictures to be shown every night. These pictures were taken to show the entire business of apple growing from the clearing of the ground to the selling of the fruit. They were made under the direction of Benjamin W. Douglass the manager of the show. In one of the last pictures Governor Ralston is shown buying Indiana apples from a fruit dealer. The Governor made a good subject for the motion picture camera. He showed himself to be a "real actor"—but made no display of "temperament."

Each day of the show there will be a cooking demonstration for the ladies. This work will be in charge of Miss McNeil of Purdue University. A great variety of possible dishes will be made showing the wide use of the apple in cooking. This series of demonstrations will be of especial value and interest to the ladies. The demonstrations will be held each afternoon from 3:30 to 5.

OZAMANS VS. JERSEY CITY.

The Ozaman club basketball team, which made a good showing last season, will open tonight the present season with the Jersey City team. The game will be played in the Catholic gymnasium. The Ozaman club has been strengthened this year and expect to make a good record. The game will be called at eight o'clock and the teams will line up as follows: (Ozaman) Farthing and Coyne, forwards; Fitzgerald, center; Shannahan and Hill, guards. (Jersey City) McDonald and W. Hall, forwards; Caldwell, center; Wright and H. Hall guards.

Health--How to Preserve It Disease--How to Prevent It

Prepared for the United Press by Dr. J. N. Hurty
State Health Commissioner

(Dr. Hurty will answer questions on prevention of disease, hygiene and sanitation. Questions requiring a personal answer cannot be considered. To avoid delay, address all questions direct to the UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATIONS, 36 1/2 West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to THE DAILY REPUBLICAN if preferred.)

J. B. E. Writes—"I am twenty-three and have a rupture. Should I use a truss or submit to an operation? How soon after an operation could I walk about unhampered."

If you have a rupture you had better consult a skilled surgeon. At this distance it is impossible to tell whether or not you need a truss or an operation. An examination only can determine that point. The surgeon will tell you how soon after an operation you can walk about unhampered. It will have to be a good guess with him, founded upon conditions he finds and your individual strength and power of recovery.

A. K. G. Writes—"Is there any cure for a flooded kidney? Sometimes after eating I have hiccough and when it ceases I am faint and hungry."

Reply—I do not know what a "flooded" kidney is. It is a new thing to me, and I find no mention of it in the medical books and upon asking several physicians I find they also are ignorant. The exact cause of hiccough is not known. You say you have it after eating. I advise you therefore to try eating less at each meal and chewing the food very much better. It may be certain foods provoke hiccough more than others. Try and find out by a close observation if this is true and act accordingly.

Health Seeker, Muncie, writes—"Are apples healthful to eat before retiring?"

Reply—Apples are healthful to eat at all times but it is usually unnecessary to eat upon retiring. It is better not to eat anything at that time. Take instead a pint of pure, cool water.

Mrs. J. J. S. writes—"I have been advised to use Listerine on my teeth. Is lime water good for a wash?"

Reply—Listerine is a good wash to use on your teeth. Lime water is good also. A tooth powder made of ordinary precipitated chalk and orris root is good.

Mrs. B. writes—"Can a wen on the head be removed without surgery?"

Reply—It frequently is unsafe to remove a wen. However, sometimes it is very practicable and safe. You should consult a physician and surgeon who will examine the matter carefully and then a rational answer may be given.

DISEASE COSTS OVER $2,000,000

State and Federal Governments Are

Hit Hard by Foot and Mouth

Epidemic Thus Far

SLAUGHTER IS NECESSARY

Future Export Trade Depends on

Immediate Eradication. Regard-

less of Great Expense

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 18.—

The foot and mouth disease epidemic among American livestock has already cost the federal and state governments more than $2,000,000. And this sum does not begin to cover the entire loss suffered as a combined result of destruction of property, interference with commerce in stock and fodder and disturbance of the feeders' plans for the winter.

Such are conclusions of Dr. Ward Gilmer, bacteriologist of the experiment station of the Michigan Agricultural College, and his associate, Dr. E. T. Hallman, of the bacteriological department. These state experts, after several weeks of serious study of the situation, today issued the following statement through the United Press:

"It is generally understood, statements to the contrary notwithstanding, that foot and mouth disease is ruminants and hogs is not usually a fatal disease and restoration to apparent normal health is the rule. Why then this apparently wanton destruction of so many valuable meat and milk producing animals especially at this time of high prices of food products and with the great foreign demands now being made on this country? The reason is sufficient but not obvious to many who have not had the opportunity to study the nature of the disease.

"It is quite true that there is a certain mortality especially in young animals and increasing with unfavorable conditions that lead to complications due to secondary infections. Chief among these troubles are a prolonged soreness of the mouth and feet interfering with eating and locomotion, extension of the disease to the stomach and intestines and even sloughing of the hoofs. There is always a loss in affected cattle amounting to $25 and to $40 in dairy animals and $10 to $15 in beef animals. These losses are due in dairy cattle to a suppression of the milk flow, a complete recovery of which may not occur during that period of location, while in beef cattle there is a loss in weight and failure to make gains. The contagiousness of this disease is so great that in the absence of drastic measures to control it, it would spread in a few years throughout the whole country, thus multiplying the individual losses by the enormous total of animals that would surely become involved.

"It is frequently asked, why is it necessary to destroy diseased and exposed animals at a complete loss? There is no salvage of meat, hides, pelts, hoofs, horns, soap grease or fertilizer,—and why? Since recovery is the rule, why are not valuable animals permitted to live under conditions that would guarantee against the further spread of the disease so far as these animals are concerned.

"The answer is based upon the fact that every outbreak of this disease in this country has depended upon the importation of the virus from a foreign country. In other words the disease does not exist in this country normally. It must be brought here from some other country. It has already been demonstrated five times that the disease can be eradicated in this country at an expenditure not prohibitive. By eradication we mean the total destruction of the living virus, or the germ, of the disease. The total destruction of the virus of foot and mouth disease demands the immediate slaughter of every affected and exposed animal, since every affected animal may carry the virus months after apparent recovery, and practically every animal exposed to the virus will develop the disease. Recovered animals are not permanently immune but may suffer a recurrence of the disease in two or more months after recovery. Saving an infected herd under conditions that would guarantee against the spread of the disease is practically and economically impossible. The necessary presence of a trained expert, the maintenance of a rigid quarantine on all farm products and members of the household for months, the impossibility of determining when the danger has terminated, are a few of the reasons for not saving the infected herd. So many uncontrollable factors exist whereby the spread of the disease is possible that we have concluded from bitter and expensive foreign experience that the slaughter method is cheapest, safest and best for us.

"The future export trade in American live stock to countries not infected with foot and mouth disease depends upon the immediate eradication at whatever expense of this plague. Heavy losers at this time should not cherish the hope that something may be learned by experimentation now, whereby affected and exposed animals may be safely spared. It is a vain hope. What we want is not to learn something about the disease, but to get rid of it; not to study it, but to eradicate it. Let foreign countries already involved furnish material for study.

"Except in the rarest instances any efforts to utilize in any manner the animals in the affected herd would entail dangers that must outweigh any possible salvage. All movement or manipulation of affected and exposed animals should be reduced to a minimum. It would be poor policy to let one dollar value endanger many thousands. Recent methods of handling infected shipments from Chicago prove the wisdom of the 'immediate and total destruction on the premises' plan. Practically in no instance has the disease been permitted to spread from these shipments except in cases where the damage was done before the visit of an inspector.

"While the disease in man is rare it does occur but its occurrence in man in America is reduced by the natural revulsion of the native American to the food products of diseased animals. The duration of the disease in man is usually from 10 to 15 days and no permanent scars are left.

"Strictly speaking there has been no epidemic of foot and mouth disease in America—it is an epizootic—'upon the animals,' not 'upon the people.'"

RUSHVILLE TEAM TO PLAY CARTHAGE

Fast Basketball Game Expected Friday Night at Graham Gym—

Schedule Being Arranged

GAME CALLED AT 8:45 O'CLOCK

The high school basketball team will play the Carthage team here Friday night. The high school team has been winning from all comers and expects to keep up the winning streak at the expense of Carthage. The Rushville team this year is one of the best the school has had in several years, and the early games are giving the team a fine chance to perfect team play. Arlington and Milroy were both easy for Rushville, but the Carthage game is expected to furnish a little stiffer opposition. Coach Burns has been working the team hard all this week and the team expects to show even more knowledge of the game Friday night than in the two previous contests. A schedule for the entire season is being worked out and it will include games with the teams of the surrounding cities in the sixth district as usual. The game Friday night will be called at 8:45 o'clock owing to the study class meeting at the Graham school.

General Tuberculosis Takes Toll of Over 15,000 Hoosiers in Past Few Months

"WAR TAX" IS ENORMOUS

Up to This Time Citizens of Indiana
Have Borne the Burden Patiently.

Indianapolis Nov. 18.—More than 15,000 Hoosiers have been wounded in the past few months through the death dealing agency of tuberculosis, according to a statement issued today by the Indiana Red Cross Seals Commission.

The battle between the legions of health and the sharpshooters under the direction of General Tuberculosis has swayed back and forth from the sand strewn shore of Lake Michigan to the willow tipped banks of the Ohio.

In the path of the two armies,
nurses, physicians and other relief agencies are working today, trying to mend wounds inflicted by the poisoned darts of the sharpshooters.
Great torn bleeding places in the chest, knee caps and hip joints shot away by the destructive forces of the invading army, internal injuries,
found only by the practiced eye,
these are the most common of the many wounds inflicted.

Orphan asylums, poor houses,
hospitals and other relief agencies
are congested with the overflow from this Hoosier battlefield. The "war tax" thus caused is enormous.
Up to this time the citizens of Indiana have shown a disposition patiently to bear the burden caused by the levying of this indemnity.

But the Red Cross Seals Commission is pointing a way by which the invading army may be conquered. It is made possible for every man, woman and child in the state to help. The way is to buy Red Cross Christmas seals for use on all December mail and holiday packages.
The seals sell for one cent each. If they have not been put on sale in your territory you are invited to write to the headquarters of the commission, 203 Public Savings Insurance Building, Indianapolis.

WANTS BIG WAR TO END IN DRAW

Head of American Red Cross Has Real Neutrality Regarding Great Conflict in Europe.

EXPLAINS HER POSITION

Would Wipe Out International Prejudice—Trying to Instill Spirit of Humanity

BY BURTON K. STANDISH (Written for United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 18.—When it comes to real neutrality, Miss Mabel Boardman active chief of the American Red Cross, has it with a sincerity that no one could doubt. She doesn't want any nation of Europe to win. She wants the big war to be a draw.

And this is how she explained her position. Her work naturally allows of no favoritism, of no partiality. It demands the distribution of mercy—of supplies, of medical attention and of kind words, to Russian, German, French and English alike. Humanity knows no nationality, as she explained it to me. Now if one side wins, it will mean that there will be large indemnities for the other side to pay. The bitterness engendered by this the greatest war the world has ever known will remain. The conquered will still bear malice. He will feel the sting of defeat, the burden of war, the blasting effects of his young men and his industries for years to come. But on the other hand, Miss Boardman argued, if the big war is a draw, there will be less of the lingering animosity. All nations will have had their bitter lesson; all will have had their revenge—if that is what they desire; all will be on equal footing. Their big armaments will be shattered, and perhaps this will be the basis for a world peace without armaments.

And Miss Boardman, perhaps more clearly than anyone with whom I have discussed the problem, has the viewpoint of all the nations. She knows how Germany felt about Russia, how France and Belgium felt about Germany, how England and Russia regarded the conflict. With all she has sympathy. She places no blame; she draws no comparison, yet in her position of ministering angel to all nations, she seems to have absorbed their spirit, their viewpoint, and she seems to know just how it must feel to a citizen of any one of the warring nations—minus their bitterness of their prejudice.

To wipe out the spilt of international prejudice is one of the aims of Miss Boardman's Red Cross work. Her nurses and doctors without taking any sides are trying to instill in their patients the spirit of humanity; are trying to subdue the element of brutality that to a greater or less extent crops out in any army in war time. Her spirit is that the Red Cross shall leave a pleasant taste in the mouths of all nations. They must return to their homes with the word "We were well used in the foreign land; the Red Cross nurses of that nation were our friends when we needed friends." In that spirit, any nation must have a better feeling toward its neighbor when the war is at an end.

That is the gigantic task to which this woman has set her heart and her hand, in addition to the big labor of trying to keep peace with the work of giving medical aid, food and supplies to the wounded and destitute of Europe's battlefields.

And in this spirit she has the big broad vision of actual neutrality—malice toward no nation, prejudice toward none, naught but aid, friendship, the helping hand.

In a different vein is the neutrality story which a high administration official tells—always, of course, with the injunction that his name must not be used.

Two Irishmen were discussing the war. One was extreme in his views, so his companion warned him that he ought to be more moderate.

"Sure, and don't ye remember what the President says ye should not take any sides in the war?" queries the one.

"Faith, and Oi am neutral," replied the other, "I don't care what country whips the Kaiser."

And speaking of the neutrality subject, "Pat" McKenna, suave usher outside President Wilson's office door, is self-appointed censor of discussion among newspapermen on war topics. Sometimes the debate waxes warm. But "Pat", always loyal to his chief, puts a summary stop to those arguments.

"No war talk around here," he commands, "the first thing you know you'll be getting past the neutrality proclamation, and besides you'll disturb the president. So nothing doing on that kind of talk."

Read Confessions of Farmer Who Was "Shown" About Mail Order

Hans Garbus is a farmer. He is a German farmer in the state of Iowa, and being Hans Garbus, and a German, and a farmer, he has learned some interesting things. There are many Germans; there are many farmers not only in Iowa but in other states, but there are not enough like this man Hans Garbus who have learned things from their experience.

This farmer, Hans Garbus, wrote a letter to the Farm Journal published in Philadelphia in which he summarized his experience also that of his neighbors, and which he told some interesting things that he had learned during the last thirty years or more that he has been following the business of farming in the state of Iowa.

His letter is indeed a human document. It is so human that it should be reproduced by every local newspaper throughout the country that other farmers, who are following the practice of living in one community and lending their business support to another, might read of the fate that befell Hans Garbus and some of his neighbors who did likewise for so many years.

Mr. Garbus writes as follows:

"We farmers are awakened to the fact that we have unmistakably reached the period where we must think and plan. I am one of the slow German farmers that had to be shown, and I am now giving my experience that others may profit, for knowledge is more expensive now than two years ago.

"Twenty-nine years ago I began my farm career. I had an old team and $50. Our furniture was mostly handmade—chairs, cupboard and lounge made from dry goods boxes, nearly covered with ten cent cretonne by my wife. We rented eighty acres. Being a boy of good habits, I got all needed machinery and groceries of our home merchants on credit until fall crops were sold. The first year was a wet season and I did not make enough to pay my creditors. I went to each on date of promise and explained conditions, paying as much as possible, and they all carried the balance over another year. They continued to accommodate me until I was able to buy a forty-acre piece of my own.

"As soon as I owned these few acres the mail order houses began sending me catalogues, and gradually I began sending my loose change to them, letting my accounts stand in my home town, where I had gotten my accommodation when I needed it.

"We then had one of the thriftiest little villages in the state—good line of business in all the branches, merchants, who were willing to help an honest fellow over a bad year and a town full of people who came twice a week to trade and visit. Our little country town supported a library, high school, band, ball team, and we had big celebrations every year. A farm near a live town soon doubles in value. I sold my forty acres at a big advance and bought an eighty, gradually adding to it until I had two hundred acres of the best land in Iowa. I then felt no need of asking favors, and found it easy to patronize the mail order agents that came almost weekly to our door. I regret to say that I was the first in the county to make up a neighborhood bill and send it to a mail order house. Though we got bit every once in a while, we got in the habit of sending away for stuff.

"Gradually our merchants lessened their stock of goods—for lack of patronage. Finally we began to realize that when we needed a bolt quickly for machinery, or clothing for sickness or death, we had to send away for it, which wasn't pleasant. One by one our merchants moved to places where they were appreciated and men of less energy moved in. Gradually our town has gone down; our business houses are "tacky" in appearance, a number are empty, our schools, churches and walks are going down, we have no band, no library, nor ball team. There is no business done in the town, therefore no taxes to keep things up. Hotel is closed for lack of travel. Go down to the depot when the freight pulls in and you will see the sequel in mail order packages.

"Nine years ago my farm was worth $195 an acre; today I'd have a hard matter to sell it at $167 an acre. It is "too far from a live town"—so every farmer has said that wants to buy. He wants a place near schools and churches, where his children can have advantages. I have awakened to the fact in helping to pull the town down, it has cost me $5,600 in nine years. Like the majority of farmers, I did not figure far enough ahead.

"This sort of business means the doing away with country towns. What will it mean to farmers to have only a few large cities at a distance of five hundred or a thousand miles? What are we going to do with our children, who are demanding even better advantages than we had?

"Those cities we help to build return no favors; they take our money but offer no credit in time of need. If we want high schools, etc., we must raise the money and build near our farm homes or send our boys and girls to the cities at great expense amidst temptations of which the farm has no equal. Neither am I the only awakening farmer. These mail order agents that come to our homes every week are becoming a nuisance and making it unsafe to leave women and children alone on the farm. With farm cordiality we take these strangers into our homes, often as one of the family, and they entice our girls to the city.

"These are some facts that need consideration and I have decided that the safest proposition all around is for the country people to look after their own interests, and build up their country towns that bring value to their farms. Let those who want to patronize the city mail order house go there to live, getting their living where they give their patronage. The remainder of my life will be given to building up the home town that I helped to pull down. Brother farmers you can take my advice or get your knowledge the way I got mine.

"HANS GARBUS."

Rushville and vicinity.

Not as many farmers took advantage of the offer to give five bushels of wheat for a barrel of flour as it was thought would. The plan was outlined because it was felt that many farmers would rather give of the products of their farm than in cash.

No one doubts the good that the flour from Rush county will do. The woe and starvation in Belgium is beyond description due to the devastation left behind by the invading armies of Germany and the defensive armies of England and France.

The Northwestern Miller, which is raising a ship load of flour for the Belgian sufferers, urges that flour be given because it is of more value to the starving, homeless people than anything that could be sent to them. Money is not desired for the sufferers because they could not buy the food to supply their wants during the winter of privation that is now upon them.

The plight of the Belgians widows and orphans is all the more pitiable because they are in no wise to blame for their condition. Three great European nations made their peaceful county—a neutral one—a battle ground to attempt to settle their imaginary difficulties.

ARRESTS IN FEDERAL PROBE

Six Are Taken Today in Connection With Investigation of Terre Haute Election Frauds.

OTHER WARRANTS TO SERVE

Specific Charge is Conspiracy to Defraud United States Election of U. S. Senator.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Nov. 18.—United States marshals were busy in Terre Haute today making arrests in what promises to be the first extensive probe of the federal government into alleged election frauds since the amendment calling for direct election of United States senators went into effect. Up to noon, six men had been arrested. The specific charge is conspiracy to defraud the United States. They were arrested on affidavits filed by Miller Davis of Terre Haute.

Those already arrested are Joe Jeffers, alleged gunman; Ed Merritt, Charles Yakle and David Hanna, all politicians of Taylorville, and Tim (Bull) Conway, ex-pugilist and politician, and "Tuffy" Butler, politician. It is alleged these men conspired to corrupt the elections in precincts A. B. and C. of the Sixth ward, which is the red light district, and precinct C. of the Taylorville ward.

United States Attorney Dailey said today this was the first case in which the federal government had attempted to investigate charges of corruption in the direct election of United States senator. He said it also was the first case in which a United States court applied Section 37 (pertaining to conspiracy to defraud the government) to election frauds. This is the section under which the celebrated dynamite conspiracy cases were tried.

Dailey said there were several other warrants to be served, that the men would be placed in jail here and that a date would be set when they would be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner here.

SITUATION IS IMPROVED

Foot and Mouth Epidemic Not so Bad in Indiana.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—"There has been a decided improvement in the foot and mouth disease situation in Indiana. While the danger period is not over, I believe we are about to stamp out the contagion. Few new cases are being reported," said State Veterinarian Nelson today.

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEI

Be wise in time and use Hyomei at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, constant frog in the throat, difficult breathing or disagreeable nasal discharges.

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh—you breathe it so that the medication goes right to the sore and inflamed tissues lining the air passages of the head and throat. Its antiseptic healing must begin at once.

There is nothing easier, quicker, or more satisfying than Hyomei—you feel better after the first treatment—it clears the head like magic. Hyomei is not merely a relief for catarrh but a sure and lasting benefit. Johnson's Drug Store sells it on the guarantee of money back if it does not cure.

COUNCILMAN MUST BE NAMED

Lewis Sexton Resigns Tuesday Night and His Successor Will be Picked at Next Meeting.

NO TIME TO DEVOTE TO IT

Fire Chief to Instructed to Test Out Engine Since it Froze up While in Race.

The resignation of Lewis M. Sexton, councilman-at-large, was accepted by the city council at the regular meeting last night. It has been known for some time that Mr. Sexton would resign but his resignation was not presented until last night. Mr. Sexton stated that because of other business he found that it was impossible to attend to the business of the city as he should and desired to quit. The council accepted the resignation and decided to wait until the next meeting before naming his successor.

The council meeting was late in getting started and then when it finally got under way lasted only about one-half hour. The "trade-at-home" banquet was a greater attraction than the council meeting and only three members were present.

City Treasurer Stech reported that a bond issue of $1,240 was due and payable at the Rushville National bank. The mayor and clerk were ordered to draw the amount and see that it was paid. It was a water and light bond and was due Nov. 15, but the notice was received only yesterday!

When the fire engine got away from the men at the Ed Lee fire the other night and rolled down the bank and into the middle of the river where it stood all night the boiler and pipes froze and up until last night they had not been thawed out. It was thought that perhaps the engine was damaged and to make sure the council instructed the fire chief that as soon as the pipes were thawed to take it out for a test. The council believed that the engine should not be left at the engine house without first testing for there was some danger that it was damaged and if it is the fact would not become known until there was a fire and then it would be too late.

The preliminary assessment roll for the sidewalk improvement in East Ninth street from Willow to George street was approved by the council and December 1 was named as the time for hearing remonstrances.

BARN BURNS AT LOSS OF $1,200

Structure on Michael Kney Farm in Orange Township is Destroyed Tuesday Afternoon

ORIGIN IS NOT DISCOVERED

A large barn on the Michael Kney farm in Orange township was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon at a loss estimated at $1,200. The fire was of unknown origin and was discovered by Mrs. Grover Henderson who lives on the Kney farm.

There was no live stock in the barn and only a few of the farming implements were saved. A large amount of hay, shredded fodder and corn were consumed in the flames, which spread very rapidly. The barn was an old one being built of logs. While it was not very large it was filled to capacity with grain. Mr. Kney carried some insurance but not enough to cover the loss.
